

Australian Wild Land Firefighting

MARKET VOID:

Increasingly common droughts accompanied by below average rainfall are creating more wild land fires in Australia where fire season is almost year round; consuming homes, lives, and important agricultural resources. Australia does not have the proper resources to fight these fires effectively relying on Rangers, Park Workers, Field and Technical Officers, with help from county volunteers from rural areas.

SOLUTION:

By creating a professional, organized, and effective Private Wild Land Firefighting Contract Crew company in Australia, you can provide the Australian Government a service they need. Their fire season is almost year round giving this service sustainability. By building up credentials and having good leaders that know what they're doing the size and growth of the company can be unlimited.